EXCELSIOR STREETCAR LINE NEEDS TROLLEY DRIVERS

The Minnesota Streetcar Museum, one of the few “living history” museums in the Twin Cities, needs volunteers to operate the historic Minnesota streetcars at its Excelsior Streetcar Line railway, located in beautiful Excelsior, Minnesota.

Have you ever wanted to do something totally unique? How about operating a trolley car? Help us re-create history, and have a little fun, by volunteering your time and skills doing something that contributes to the quality of life in our community! Have you ever seen or ridden the historic streetcars that run from Water Street in Excelsior and said: “Gee, that looks like fun!” Well, here’s your chance.

Operator training starts in mid-April. Operator trainees need to be at least 18 years old and must be physically capable of operating a streetcar for at least three hours a minimum of once per month. During training, which is scheduled on a flexible basis, you’ll learn how a streetcar and its controls work, you’ll be taught a little history about Twin City’s streetcars, and you’ll learn how to safely operate an historic Twin City Lines streetcar along the Museum’s one-half mile long streetcar line in the quaint town of Excelsior. For more information, go to the Museum’s website TrolleyRide.org or contact Rod Eaton at 763-576-0608 or rpeaton@comcast.net
